

Dr Shannon Smith

Dr Shannon Smith has been the Counsellor (Education) at the Australian Embassy in Jakarta since March 2005. Previously he was the Director of the Ministerial Briefings Unit, which provided strategic policy advice and support to the Ministers and senior Executive in the Department of Education.

Dr Smith has an educational and employment background in public policy, political economy and international relations. He has contributed to several key Australian Government policy initiatives, primarily in the schools and international education sectors.

Dr Smith is the author of several publications on Indonesian history, political economy and high-technology industries. Dr Smith holds a PhD from the Australian National University, and a BA (Hons) and MA from Monash University. He also has obtained qualifications from Hasanuddin University and Satya Wacana Christian University. Dr Smith is a past recipient of the Australian Award for Research in Asia.